FESTIVAL BIG SUCCESS

FAIR CLOSURES WITH BRILLIANT PROCESSION AND RIOT OF MERRIMENT

Whatever legitimate criticism may be made of methods and results of the Festival of Fruits and Flowers, there is no doubt that on the whole it was a great success. The last day of the festival attracted large crowds who thronged the streets and especially crowded about the Better Baby Bureau, whence the baby parade was to start.

Thirty-five entrants in the baby parade made quite a show. Every kind of baby outfit was there and it must have been quite difficult for the judges to decide between the different candidates. Where so many were good it was quite a distinction for Vincent Reel, the baby in the "California or Bust" carriage, No. 20, to gain first prize for originality of design. In this class Mrs. Van Ertin's baby, No. 34; Mrs. George Melford's baby, No. 18, and an auto-in-green, No. 15, obtained honorable mention.

In the artistic effect class, the first prize was won by Mary Gilhouse in her oriole cart effect, trimmed with plumosas and pink carnations. In this class honorable mention was given to No. 16, a go-cart trimmed with pink carnations and green and white; No. 6, which was covered with small pink roses, and another go-cart covered with green fern and white carnations. It has not been possible to publish the names omitted as no record was kept except of the winners of prizes.

The parade moved on to the high school, where an interesting session took place in the auditorium. Dr. Maud Wilde, chairman of the district committee of health of the women's club, made an exceedingly interesting address in which she showed the necessity for accurate records of birth registration.

Dr. Woods Comstock spoke on "Parenthood," giving interesting details of the latest scientific methods of feeding and dressing babies, with general health directions. Mrs. Geo. Berry, who was to have spoken, was unable to be present.

Dr. Durfee outlined the general methods to be pursued in deciding the baby contest. Mrs. Scott W. Johnson awarded the prizes.

Mrs. N. H. Withey was chairman of the committee on vehicles. She was assisted by Miss Cora Hickman and Mrs. E. H. Willisford. Dr. Jessie A. Russell acted in an advisory capacity to both committees. Following is the list of prize winners:

Sweepstakes—Medals given by the Woman's Home Companion: First, Joseph Ashton, Tropico, 99 per cent; second, Ruth E. Dionysius, 98.5. This competition was for babies from six months to five years.

Class 1. Joseph L. Sturdevant, silver loving cup, 97.5 per cent; Donald Bartlett and Charlotte Evans, engraved certificate. Sweepstakes, 13 to 60 months: Ruth E. Tower, 24 months, 98 per cent; John H. Kent, 98 per cent.

Class 2. Barbara Chandler, 97.5 per cent, bronze medal; Elsie L. Phillips and Walter Carpenter, certificates.

Class 3. Helen M. Retts, 34 months, 96.5 per cent, bronze medal; Caroline Ashton and John Sherman Marvel.

Class 4. Edith Perkins, bronze medal; Ethel Sanders and Seme Glane, 41 months, certificates.

Class 5. Ella L. May, bronze medal; Annabel Munser, 55 months, and Stanley C. Lowry, 49 months, certificates.

The great feature of the day was the grand parade, which brought out a larger display of floats and autos than was expected. The splendid array would have done credit to a bigger city than Glendale. Starting from the city hall, the parade which was under the active charge of Clem Moore, Frank Showalter and W. E. Evans. Mr. J. W. Siltson was chairman of the parade committee. The horse ridden by Frank Showalter was lent for the occasion by Mr. L. C. Brand. This fine animal is considered one of the premier saddle horses in Southern California. It is valued at $700. No prize was awarded to this entry as the judges did not know that it was in the competition.

Heading the parade came Chief of Police George H. Herald, leading the police detachment of Glendale, riding a fine mount, which did justice to his important office. The chief was accompanied by Officers E. A. Lawrence, H. W. Hollenbeck, C. V. Arrington and E. Schroeder. In their handsome new olive green uniforms the officers looked as fine and efficient a body of men as ever graced any city parade. They were followed by the city authorities in an automobile—O. A. Lane, A. W. Tower, J. S. (Continued on Page 4)

JENNINGS CONVERTED

GLENDALE PASTOR ADMINISTERS BAPTISM TO THE NOTED REFORMED BANDIT

Al Jennings, the most picturesque personality of Oklahoma, entered upon a new period of his remarkable career by confessing faith in Jesus Christ as his personal savior followed by immersion at the First Baptist church of this city. To the local Baptist preacher, John Henry Troy, belongs the great pleasure of leading the former outlaw and convict, one-time leader of the notorious Jennings band, to the foot of the cross of Christ.

Ten years ago the daring train robber was pardoned by Theodore Roosevelt, and Sunday, May 30, 1915, Al Jennings received the pardon of his heavenly father. From running for governor of a great state, the little orator of Oklahoma has now announced his determination to run for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. They who witnessed his confession and immersion Sunday evening somehow felt that they were present at the beginning of something of more than ordinary importance to the cause of Christ, and on every hand could be heard prophecies of another mighty evangelist of the modern church. So touching was the scene that spontaneously the great audience pressed forward to greet the new convert, a movement which developed into an informal reception to the famous lecturer and author and the other candidates for baptism.

Rev. Troy remarked, as he so often does, that there is hope for any man who is honest. Those who have listened to Al Jennings are convinced of his deep sincerity and honesty and he does not fail to establish the fact that many of the worst crooks escape the penitentiary, while many a man with a prison record needs but a fair opportunity to make a fresh start in order to come back.

Jennings, the bandit, has paid his debt to the law of the land. Jennings, the lawyer and international character by ten years of straight living, has won the confidence of millions of his fellow citizens. Al Jennings, the follower of the lowly Nazarene, has commenced a new chapter of his eventful life, and his many friends confidently believe that the most important period of that life commenced at the First Baptist church of Glendale Sunday evening.

An effort will be made to secure Mr. Jennings for several services at the local Baptist church commencing on Wednesday evening of this week. At the regular communion service of next Lord's Day the gifted convert will be received into the full fellowship of the Baptist church with many others who have recently been converted. Definite notice will appear later in the columns of The News.

PARTY AT CAMP BALDY

Camp Baldy resounded with the gay laughter and merriment of a large party of Glendale people Saturday night. The merry week-enders were T. A. Wright and Mrs. Wright, C. H. Bott and Mrs. Bott, C. D. Lusby and family, Ed M. Lee and family, William Lee, Jr., and Mrs. Lee, H. A. Wilson and family, Miss Holloway, Miss Learned, Miss McNutt and Joe Wilson.

Quite a pleasant time was enjoyed and the whole company was afforded unalloyed pleasure when Mr. Harrison appeared at the plunge resplendent in the latest style of tights. So pleased was Mr. Harrison with the surroundings of the camp and its many natural beauties that he bought a lot there and will begin at once the erection of a mountain home. Those who know the hospitality that has always characterized the Harrison household will easily understand that the latch-string will be available to all friends, especially to those from Glendale.

H. L. MILLER CO. MOVES

The H. L. Miller Co. is moving their real estate office from 476 West Broadway to 409 South Brand boulevard, Glendale. Harry Miller, Justice of the peace of Burbank township, will also move from 476 West Broadway to the new location, with the H. L. Miller Co.

A. G. T. CLUB

The members of the A. G. T. club gave a card party Saturday night in honor of the husbands of the members at the home of Mrs. Chester King, 868 Damasco court. A pleasant evening was spent. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Leon Wilkinson, 3142 Elsinore street, Los Angeles, when the members of the club expect to enjoy the usual good time with this hospitable lady.

AT LA RAMADA

RECIPROCITY DAY FOR FIRST DISTRICT CALIFORNIA CONGRESS OF MOTHERS

On Wednesday, June 2, the members of the first district, California Congress of Mothers, comprising all of Los Angeles county and numbering practically 12,000 members, will have a reciprocity meeting at La Ramada. Basket luncheons will be brought by all who attend, and will be enjoyed under the ramada and the spreading pepper trees, where will be tables artistically decorated for the occasion.

The national president, Mrs. Frederick Schoff of Philadelphia; Mrs. Orville Bright of Chicago, Mrs. Fred Dick of Denver, national vice-president, and Miss Wilson, vice-president of the Illinois Congress of Mothers, have been invited to attend, and if they can arrange their itinerary to do so, will be present.

District officers will be in attendance, the president, Mrs. C. H. Ritchie, formerly of Venice, but now of Burbank, presiding. Reports of the work of the Parent-Teacher associations over the district will be given; also reports of the recent national convention at Portland, Oregon, and of the California convention at San Francisco.

A pleasing feature will be a reading to be given by Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan, whose excellent interpretations are so thoroughly enjoyed by her audience.

It is expected that a very large number of guests will be in attendance. Anyone interested in the Parent-Teacher work will be cordially welcomed, whether members of an association or not; and it is expected that all Glendale members will come and make the day a happy one for the guests.

Those receiving the guests will be Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. J. F. Padel, Mrs. E. S. McKee, Miss Eva Daniels, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Geo. Adams, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. E. A. Bayley, Mrs. A. C. Andersen, Dr. E. H. Willisford, Mrs. N. C. Kelley, Mrs. H. W. Yarik, Mrs. C. L. Chandler, Mrs. Frederick Baker, Mrs. F. E. Hagin, Mrs. Loretta Morehouse, Mrs. L. W. Bossman, Mrs. J. W. West, officers of the local Federation, presidents and presidents-elect of the local associations.

AL JENNINGS TO PREACH

Al Jennings, converted bandit and train robber, whose brave struggle to "beat back" has thrilled thousands, will celebrate his recent conversion to Christ in the Baptist church of this city by preaching his first message under the blood-stained banner of Calvary on Wednesday evening in the pulpit of the First Baptist church of Glendale. The public is freely invited, doors opening at 7 o'clock.

This unique series of meetings will run Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday, the Baptist gospel team assisting. Rev. Troy predicts great things for the community and the press of the country indicates that Al Jennings will likely prove a religious sensation of favorable comparison with Billy Sunday's career. Anyway, it will help put Glendale on the map of the evangelistic world. Many wonder what Jennings' first gospel sermon will sound like. One thing certain, Troy will work to make the ex-convict a scriptural gospeler. Arrangements are being made to print this first sermon of the famous character in full.

NOTABLE WOMEN ENTERTAINED

On Friday last Mrs. Charles H. Toll entertained with a luncheon at her home, her guests being Mrs. Frederick Schoff of Philadelphia, president of the National Congress of Mothers for the past thirteen years; Mrs. Orville Bright of Chicago, second vice-president of the same organization; Mrs. Fred Dick of Denver, third vice-president of the Congress of Mothers; Miss Wilson, vice-president of the Illinois Congress of Mothers, and Mrs. Chas. C. Noble of Los Angeles, national chairman of membership for the Congress.

J. O. C. CLASS

The regular meeting of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. May Knox, 327 Belmont street. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance.

CINDERELLA SEWING CLUB

The Cinderella Sewing Club, which did not hold its usual meeting Saturday night on account of the carnival, will meet next Saturday at the home of Mrs. E. Kinser, 1306 Hawthorne street.

HONOR FALLEN HEROES

N. P. BANKS POST DECORATES GRAVES—OTHER NOTES FROM TROPICO

Monday morning the Post, Corps and Sons of Veterans assembled in the G. A. R. hall and then went to Grand View cemetery, where appropriate services were held following the decoration of the graves of the members of the Post and Corps. Many attended these services from Burbank. The delightfully cool weather was especially enjoyed, as the beautifully decorated graves added much to the services. At 2:30 the graves of the comrades in Forest Lawn cemetery were decorated by the pupils of the Tropico schools, Comrade Robert N. Taylor, officer of the day, conducting these exercises. It was indeed a beautiful sight to see these forty or more boys and girls each carrying baskets and garlands of flowers following Old Glory and strewing the graves of the departed veterans with the choicest of blossoms. Superintendent Gloria of the cemetery had arranged a most delightfully cool and shady place where the patriotic services were held, conducted by Post Commander George W. Sanford. The services both at Grand View and Forest Lawn cemeteries closed by four members of N. P. Banks rifles, Comrades J. B. Hickman, R. D. Goss, Howard Goss and Robert N. Taylor, firing salutes under the direction of Major J. J. Weiler.

Another delightful social card club has been organized in Tropico. This one is the Wednesday Auction Bridge and has been launched with a membership of eight, including exclusive society women as well as expert card players. The club held a most pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. A. H. Gaarder on Glendale avenue Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Harry E. Bownan scored highest and was awarded the first prize. Other members present included Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. R. W. Kimball, Mrs. M. Barnard, Mrs. Karl E. Hollingsworth, Mrs. T. R. Keely and Mrs. Donald Bennett. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Bennett on Acacia avenue. Tropico now has three card clubs, one that meets on Mondays, when the ladies enjoy luncheon at their hostess' homes; the second one meets on Tuesdays, auction bridge being enjoyed after a delicious luncheon served by the hostess, and now comes the Wednesday Auction Bridge.

Thursday Auction Bridge, Friday Auction Bridge and Saturday Auction Bridge are equally as euphonious as either of the first three days of the week and there is still a large number of ladies in Tropico who are expert card manipulators and we are inquiring who will organize the Thursday Auction Bridge.

N. P. Banks Post, Corps and Sons of Veterans held memorial services in G. A. R. hall Sunday afternoon, when Comrade W. C. Gibbons delivered the address. The decorating committee of the Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Thomas Atkinson and Mrs. Jack Hammond, decorated the large auditorium in many flags and quantities of brilliantly hung flowers. The large audience enjoyed the splendid program prepared by the conference committee of these patriotic organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jenkins of 730 Glendale avenue will entertain with a delightful luncheon party complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Hindu Island, near Honolulu, who are visiting in Southern California. The decorations for this charming affair will be in Shasta daisies. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are old-time neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins when these two families resided in the East.

After a most delightful visit in San Diego of several days, Mr. Frank I. Marsh has returned to his home on Central avenue.

Mr. John A. Logan chartered his daughter, Miss Mary Logan; nieces, Miss Katherine Hobbs and Miss Dorothy Hobbs; nephew, Mr. Dwight Stephenson, and Miss George Duffett on a delightful motor trip to Venice Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson D. Crawford and daughter, Miss Marian Crawford of Corona, motored over Saturday and have been enjoying a most delightful visit as the guests of their cousins, Miss Cora Hickman and Miss Marjorie Imber of Palm Vista.

The splendid parade of the Fruits and Flower Festival of Glendale that honored Tropico by parading Central avenue, San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, Saturday afternoon, was most thoroughly enjoyed by the citizens of this city and one continuous ovation greeted this splendid pageant. With one accord all extended congratulations and say, "Come again!"

SCHOOL OF WOODWORK

G. U. H. S. BOYS SHOW REMARKABLE TALENT FOR FINE CABINET WORK

In the midst of the many exercises at the Union high school last week, a large number of parents and friends found time to visit the mechanical arts building on Louise street. Those who did so were amply repaid for their trouble. Indeed, there was not one who passed through the modern and thoroughly equipped building who was not agreeably astonished at the remarkable work of the boys in that section.

Great credit is due both Mr. Oliver and Mr. Hildebrand for the work they have accomplished in bringing their classes forward under considerable disadvantages. When it is remembered that it was only in January that the boys began along with their teachers to put in the cement foundations and bases for the machinery in this section and to install the machines, the work accomplished appears all the more wonderful. Mr. Oliver has given a couple of excellent articles on the subject of "Mechanical Arts" to the Glendale Evening News and will follow up the subject still further. In those articles he gave an outline of the kind of work and methods pursued in the mechanical arts building. The present story is concerned particularly with the work that is going on in the woodwork section.

In that part of the mechanical arts building Mr. W. G. Hildebrand is in charge and under his guidance the boys have turned out in a few weeks work that is equivalent to what is usually accomplished in not less than a year in other schools. The boys after installing all the machinery needed in their work, began on the regular class work and succeeded in turning out a great deal of work equal in workmanship and finish to the best products of the cabinet-maker.

The school is equipped with eight lathes, universal sawbands, surfacing machines, a jointer and a morticing machine. These machines are merely used for roughing down the work preliminary to the work the boys put on it. Judging from the specimens showed in the school, the boys are thoroughly grounded in all the details of carpentry and cabinet work.

The pupils are taught to make every kind of joint that is used in carpentry and cabinet work. The work exhibited is real work. No screws are used—all is real cabinet work. From the first joints made along through the work of making magazine stands, book stands, picture frames and other small articles beautifully polished and finished, the boys arrive at the lathe work.

In this section of the exhibit are found candlesticks, nutbolls, egg-cups and turned work of every kind. There is a fine set of tool handles. Most of the work is of such excellence that visitors are to be found inquiring constantly, "Did the boys really do that themselves?"

Mr. Hildebrand varies the work for the boys. Next session the class that did the wood-turning work will be set to cabinet work and the cabinet-makers will go over to wood-turning.

In the cabinet work section still further surprises awaited the visitor. It is seldom that you see better work anywhere; while most of it is superior to that sold in the ordinary furniture store. Linen chests made out of the beautiful red cedar wood that come in four-inch wide planks showed fine joiner work and scented the surrounding air with their fragrance. Large serving and dining room tables of mahogany held the eye; an oak center table shone with delicate finish, bookcases with glass fronts, finished in the best style and many other articles of furniture showed careful training and faithful execution.

Following is the list of the boys and their work: In the section of small turned work the exhibitors were—Ralph Carmichael, Wallace Cramer, Paul Cramer, Harlan Durr and, Charles Midgeley, Allen Williams, Paul Williams.

Tabourets—Paul Bonnot, Calvin Butler, John Farmer, Fred Wilson, James McCluskey, Paul Smith, Hubert Toll, Noble Van Ness.

Sabin Buch, magazine stand; Geo. Marsh, book-rack; Eugene Moore, music stand.

Alvin Dunn, turned serving table; Ben Durham, mahogany table; Miller Fishel, large mahogany table.

Mark Francey, mahogany piano bench, large oak living-room table, oak center table.

Ernest Schuyler, oak screen, Rafael Verdugo, large oak table and small serving table.

Francis Bacon, mahogany music cabinet; Walter Beach, red cedar linen chest; Lawrence Davis, oak screen; Leslie Kepler, oak serving

STAND BY PRESIDENT

AMERICAN CITIZEN OF GERMAN DESCENT SAYS NO MAN CAN STAND UNDER TWO FLAGS

That the sinking of the Lusitania, with a very large number of American men, women and children on board, by a German submarine has deeply affected the nation, appears to be a fact which a large proportion of the German people are incapable of comprehending. Nevertheless, it is a fact that will always be a powerful factor in the future dealings of the United States with the German government. An inability to understand the mental workings of other nations is characteristic of that section of United Germany, which is known as Prussia. The Prussian Junker, above all, has shown a species of haughty indifference to the popular feelings and cherished sentiments of other nations that has provoked keen resentment in Europe and is marked and remembered in the United States.

Since the war began in Europe the men who form the policy of Germany have been sedulously striving to create "German-American" sentiment in the United States. It will be remembered that President Wilson wisely cautioned the citizens of our country against taking sides in the regrettable conflict that is now rending Europe asunder. The country as a whole has noted and approved the president's advice.

Some, however, who have never gotten over their affiliations with their "fatherland," have neglected to follow the wise caution given by President Wilson. It may be well for them to ponder what an American citizen of German descent has to say on this subject. This letter is a communication to one of the Muscatine, Iowa, newspapers:

Mustantine, Iowa, May 13, 1915—To the Editor: German in name, with a grandfather who once lived near Berlin, and a father who spoke the language, and proud of my German lineage, I may, with good grace, address a line or two to some of my discontented fellow citizens of German extraction.

Irrespective of our personal opinions as to the right of Germany to sink the Lusitania, let us remember, so far as it may affect this country in our relations with Germany, that the whole matter is in the hands of our representatives in Washington, elected by us and placed there with full authority to handle just such matters. And their acts are our acts, and that an insult to the president is an insult to our flag.

No man can stand under two flags. It can't be done; for he is traitor to either one or the other. We owe and will give strict allegiance to our flag and to our president. Otherwise we have no business here. To argue otherwise would be absurd.

The sinking of the Lusitania was a great horror, and is so considered by the world. Personally I know citizens of Germany now in this country on business who have wept over the death of those women and children, although naturally they have tried to justify the act on the part of Germany. The German people have hearts; they do not glory in the death of innocent babes.

The thing is up to the administration, and the country is behind the president. It will be found that in case the issue is drawn the American citizens of German descent and German adoption will be true, loyal and brave. A few, as always in such times, will speak or write ill advisedly. To such let me say:

My adopted brother, seek you a spot, amid the staid oak, where the placid stream and the blue sky reflect a divine calm, an infinite justice and a well-balanced sense of the eternal fitness of things; and there reflect on the wonderful heritage for you and yours as adopted children of liberty. But think not that liberty is license. Respect this mighty gift; treasure it, and be proud that you are an American! And so, alone with nature and the Almighty, lift your face to the eternal heavens and sing:

"My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty!"

Then thank God you are here and are an American citizen! The greatest and proudest title on earth; and forget this German-American business, for there is no such country as German-America and never will be.

FREDERICK S. PENTZER.

GLENDALE'S THREE DAYS' FESTIVAL

Glendale has every reason to be proud of the showing made by her citizens throughout the three days of the Festival of Fruits and Flowers. It would be difficult to find room for any criticism of what the people of Glendale did to make the show a success. The efforts put forth show an immense amount of local ability, industry and talent.

The ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon club and the friends who assisted them showed marked originality in their play and if the audiences were not as large as they might have been, they were immensely appreciative of the fine histrionic ability manifested.

In all departments of the schools the work done was of the first class. The floats and cars in the parade were tasteful and cleverly indicative of Glendale's progress. Everyone was enthusiastic and good-natured.

In every way the ladies and the business men of Glendale are to be congratulated on the success of the pleasant fete. When another season rolls 'round with its changes and its advances, the city may expect to see a festival that will be so much better than this one that it will be manifest that all have purchased valuable experience within the past few days.

STUNTING A CITY'S GROWTH

It is easy to give a city a reputation that will prove exceedingly detrimental to its growth. In these days of publicity it is not difficult to give a wrong aspect to the conditions that prevail in any community. There are towns that are living examples of the stunting effects of civic quarrels; there are cities that have been set back twenty years by a reputation, deserved or undeserved, for narrow-mindedness.

On the other hand, there are cities that are forcible object lessons of the value of broad-mindedness and progressive ideas. Liberality in dealing with business development has done more for the growth of Los Angeles, for instance, than almost any other reason that can be quoted. The business community of Los Angeles has encouraged the settlement within its limits of new forms of manufacture and within the last year alone more than 100 new concerns made that advancing center their headquarters.

No city can afford to acquire a reputation for a lack of liberality in handling this question. The very life of a city is the upgrowth of new forms of industry within its bounds. It means the establishing of new payrolls and the disbursement on every hand of more money. That is the very life-blood of a city. The money earned within the city's gates goes out in a constant, vivifying stream to encourage and promote the growth of other industries and businesses.

It is therefore with regret that citizens of Glendale must have read in Friday's issue of the Glendale Evening News that Messrs. Kent & Son, an enterprising young business firm in the city, which has already made itself a reputation for activity, earnestness and thoroughness in its work, is on the eve of seeking other quarters than Glendale for its growing business. The Kent firm built the Union high school and its work there is an enduring testimony to its skill and capacity.

That such a firm should be refused a site whereon to erect the buildings necessary to its enlarging business is but poor recommendation to other industrial firms to settle here. Glendale needs every one of such industries it can get and has no need to drive them away.

Let the word go forth that Glendale discourages the establishment of new enterprises in its midst, and there are many other neighboring communities that are ready, like Los Angeles, to offer them free sites if they will only come and bless them with the fruits of their labors. Of what value the efforts of the past to build up an ideal city in Glendale if the city achieves for itself the reputation of throwing obstacles in the way of new development? The active and progressive members of the Chamber of Commerce and other public bodies might do well to consider this matter and take such steps as may be possible to remedy conditions that are not likely to redound to the profit of the community.

USE OF PUBLIC LIBRARIES

It is almost incredible that there should exist at the present day people who consider public libraries an evil and advocate their abolition. Such, however, is the case. Perverted religious belief sometimes leads sectaries to condemn in the most sweeping fashion all books as worthless and the time spent on them as worse than wasted. Such people and even others who should know better do not realize the tremendous value of a public library.

The modern public library advocates a balanced use of books and discourages the reading of fiction alone. Fiction, however, has its place, and a most useful place, in the development of the human faculties or in contributing to the relaxation of the human mind. W. E. Gladstone, the famous premier of Great Britain, used to read Gaboriau's French detective stories, even in the house of commons, for the purpose of relieving the strain on his mind. Other great men have had similar tastes. The old Latin proverb says: "Apollo himself is not always bending his bow." Men must relax or they may go insane.

But there are other uses of the public library apart from that of mental relaxation. As a consulting medium the library is unequalled. The most difficult art in connection with using a library is to know to what source to go for information. Many a person has the very material he or she desires under hand and does not know it.

By the aid of the card index almost any book can be obtained. The index usually shows the book under at least two classifications—author's name and subject. You will also find books classified under various departments, such as history, biography, memoirs, fiction, philosophy, statistics, etc.

In addition all libraries have what is known as "Poole's Index," a volume that is kept up to date and gives the reader the names of magazines with the different articles contained in them. The name, volume and date of the publications are given. A skillful user of the library can usually put his hand on the very book he wants without trouble. There is a sort of natural gift, which of course is largely aided by constant reading, that enables a reader to get exactly what is wanted in the way of knowledge on any particular subject.

De Quincey once said that one of the gifts of a great mind was that of being able to perceive the relations of one subject to all others. "All subjects," he said, "are correlated; and it is the perception of those sometimes very obscure relations that constitutes originality." In similar fashion a practiced reader is able to remember apt reference to all manner of subjects in the most unlikely books. However, the most common use of the public library is to obtain information on some particular subject. This is easily done by referring to the main classification of the subject you desire to study or read upon. Say that you want to write a paper on "Linen." You will find under that head on the card index all the names of books in the library on that subject. You can go to Poole's and other magazine indexes and find where excellent articles on the same subject are contained. In a very short time you will be in possession of all the information you need from the sowing of the flax seed to the final putting on of the surface gloss in the finishing room of the mill; or you can even follow the story farther into the tariff column and learn the duties on linen in every nation.

The library is a gigantic storehouse of information. In it are treasures untold. "Reading," said the old English writer, "maketh a full man." The library is invaluable to high school or university students and the student who makes a good use of this aid is in possession of a great advantage over his fellows.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS

Here are some statistics of great value for voters to remember when next the liquor question is brought up as an issue for the citizens of California. They are taken from statements made by Attorney-General Trickett of Kansas. There are 3,300,000 people in Missouri and 1,690,000 in Kansas. Missouri is a license state and Kansas has had prohibition for some thirty years. The total assessed property in Missouri is $1,650,000,000; Kansas has $2,750,000,000. In thirty years, from the poorest state in the country it has come to be the richest. During the last panic Kansas sent $50,000,000 east. Missouri did not send a dollar. There are a number of cities in Missouri of more than 5000 inhabitants, without paved streets. There is no town in Kansas of 1500 inhabitants without paved streets and electric light plants. Missouri has one motor car for every 100 of its farmers; Kansas has one to every five. Kansas spends $14 per week for labor, while Missouri spends $8. Kansas has spent proportionately twice as much for education. Now comes the explanation of the almost unbelievable contrast. Missouri has spent in the last twenty years $1,600,000,000 for liquor, or an amount about equal to her taxable property. In that time Kansas has spent but $50,000,000. The difference between Missouri's liquor bill and Kansas' liquor bill is $1,550,000,000, a sum that would give the head of every Kansas family five fine auto cars. There is vastly much more implied in these statistics than the mere wealth in dollars and cents. On account of the destruction of the liquor traffic Kansas shows a higher type of citizenship. With the need of jails and penitentiaries almost eliminated, we need no longer theorize as to what prohibition will do for California. Kansas is a living demonstration.

LOOKING BACKWARD

"Say, Mister, that man told me to get you to give me the brick stretcher—he wants it," said the small boy.

The old-timer gasped, and then he covered his mouth with his hand and said: "Well, we just sent it over to the blacksmith shop to get it repaired; you will have to go after it." The kid ran along and the old man and his cronies laughed, but the event had stirred up memories of the old man's own younger days, when he had chased after impossible things, and he sat for a while, sober and reflective.

As the kid came back, he remembered the hot summer day when a greasy-handed imp of satan, posing as a plumber's helper, sent him after a left-handed monkey-wrench. And he imagined he felt again the smart and welts on his legs that followed a visit, years ago, to a grouchy old harness-maker with a request for a pint of strap oil. A little further along he remembered how he missed his supper and got a whipping for chasing to every paint shop in town for some striped paint, which a tramp painter needed at once for redecorating a barber pole. And as he sat, he went again on countless fruitless trips after white lamp black, italic spaces, oven keys, tent wrenches, stovepipe shears and dot and dash oil for the telegraph office.

WANTED

Young man mechanically inclined to learn automobile business in spare time; a splendid opportunity to fit yourself for good paying position. Address Box "M," Evening News, Glendale.

The joke was not as funny when he remembered the old days. A little of the baffled feeling that he had known as a child came back and again the childish dread of being teased came over him. The boy came back along the other side of the street, dodging from hardware store to blacksmith shop, from blacksmith shop to implement shed.

"Hey, kid," the old man called, "There ain't no such thing as a brick stretcher. Those fellows are coddling you. Here's a dime; go get yourself an ice cream sody."—California Outlook.

EXPOSITION NOTES

SAN DIEGO, June 1.—Capt. Carlos Miranda of the Argentine training ship, Presidente Sarmiento, is a good sport. The entire crew of the ship devoted part of the day to learning the meaning of "good sport" and so christened the captain in recognition of his declaring a holiday for all concerned when the ship arrived in San Diego harbor and hiring shifts of longshoremen to attend to coaling and icing while the crew visited the San Diego exposition.

The ship pulled into San Diego for one of the early stops in its 23,000 mile tour for the training of midshipmen recently graduated from the Argentine Naval Academy at Buenos Ayres. Shore leave was granted and the midshipmen and veteran sailors marched to the exposition grounds, which were thrown open to them. Foreign warships in the harbor have been few since the war started, although they continue to appear occasionally.

Eligible males of Southern California are looking forward hopefully for June 14, when the delegation of sixty American beauties brought across the continent under the chaperonage of Mrs. Champ Clark will arrive at the San Diego exposition. They reach Universal City, near Los Angeles, on June 11 as guests of the Universal Film Manufacturing company. There a committee, including Director-General H. O. Davis of the San Diego exposition, is to essay the difficult task of selecting the most beautiful of the sixty.

Davis was besought to name a substitute to take his place on the committee.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. H. Connett of Santa Monica delivered the morning sermon, preaching from the text found in I Cor. 13-12, "Now we know in part." "Do these words still hold true?" asked the preacher, "or have we progressed so far since they were written by Paul nearly 2000 years ago that we can now claim that we know it all?" In other words, is the text up-to-date? It was never more true than at the present time; we have learned much, but the little we know is almost nothing compared to that which is beyond. But it is our privilege to hope for full knowledge when the time shall come that "we shall know as we are known." We have a larger vision of God and humanity than mankind once had, but our knowledge is yet so limited that there is little room for dogma. A man may know how to build a piece of machinery, he may be permitted to understand the inner workings of a mechanical engine, but the human being is a more intricate piece of mechanism, the secret springs of which the minds of men cannot fathom. Paul knew certain things. "I know whom I have believed," he says, and he declares, "All things work together for good," which is a hard lesson to learn in time of trouble, but gives full latitude for the application of a saving faith. We can only know God in part now, but when we stand in his presence we shall know him. We do not know his ultimate purpose, but he wants us to walk by faith. The speaker declared his belief that man is not naturally depraved, but is naturally good, and quoted the cases of many of the self-sacrificing workers for humanity. The valuable lesson for us to learn is how to do the best with the little knowledge that we have and trust God in the belief that it is limited so as to best serve his wise purpose. "As for me, I want to look back from the end of the journey and say, 'It has been good for me all the way.'"

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

"Watch ye; stand fast in the faith; quit ye like men; be strong. Let all that ye do be done in love." Can you think of a more comprehensive or a better motto for Christian life?

This was Paul's exhortation to the church at Corinth, as presented by Mr. Francis in Sunday morning's sermon at the Christian church. Paul had found many evils which had crept into the Corinthian church which he did not fail to condemn in plain measured words, but finally he sets them a beautiful example of Christian charity in the words quoted above. They are full of love and forgiveness, but carry with them the command in military language to watch and "be men." After all the admonition a father can give to his son, what carries with it so much weight as the simple "be a man?"

"Blessed Are They That Mourn" was the subject at the evening service. The fullest, richest joys can only come through suffering, and the soul which has never mourned can never taste of the sweet peace which can come only through the faith in the rich promises of God. The selfish self-seeking heart has to be torn and bled, but when it is brought into subjection to the will of its maker, it is refined and sweetened and has a joy far beyond what could otherwise have obtained.

The women's class continues to lead the men in their "contest" and now have fifteen points to eight for the men. It looks as if they would have a walk-away.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a tent tea at the home of Mrs. Thompson, 1314 West Fifth street, next Thursday afternoon. A program will be rendered and refreshments served.

Next Lord's Day being Children's Day, the children will render a program at the evening service. At the morning hour the pastor will deliver a lecture on "Our Position as a People." This announcement may be of interest to some outsiders who are not clear on this matter.

The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening will be led by Mrs. Rambo, which means that it will be a good one. Some interesting news in regard to this service is on the tapis. Be sure to be there and learn what it is.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Marsh of 1645 Ruth street entertained as their dinner guests Saturday Mrs. Marsh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilbur of Rancho La Solano, San Gabriel. Mr. Wilbur was chosen as one of the judges of the floral and industrial pageant in Glendale last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Winslow and children of 1629 Ruth street are spending a few days at Long Beach, where they are guests of Mr. Winslow's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Richardson of that place.

Mrs. J. Earl McKeever of 421 North Brand boulevard entertained at a prettily appointed luncheon last Saturday, her guests including Mrs. A. J. Hartfield and Mrs. L. Kratz of Los Angeles; also Mrs. Hartfield's house guest, Miss Beatrice Seymour of New York, who came to Glendale to enjoy the Fruit and Flower Festival.

Mr. Leland Duncan of 1600 Ruth street left Saturday evening for Ventura, where he spent Sunday and Monday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis, at their beautiful ranch home.

Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street was the guest of Mrs. Alvin Ross of Everett street last Saturday.

BIG ELEPHANT UNVEILED

An impressive ceremony marked the unveiling of the Hancock memorial tablet in the Los Angeles County Museum of History, Science and Art at Exposition park yesterday afternoon. Relatives and close friends of the Hancock family gathered to honor the memory of Maj. Henry Hancock and Ida Hancock Ross, as well as to show their respect and appreciation to George Allan Hancock for his generosity in presenting to the county the immense fossil beds discovered a few years ago upon Rancho La Brea, a part of the vast Hancock estate.

Among the exhibits unearthed in the La Brea fossil pits are skeletons of such prehistoric animals as the saber-tooth tiger, mastodon, sloth, bison, bear, lion, camels and horses. But of far greater importance to science and natural history is the skeleton of the Imperial elephant. It has taken Eugene J. Fisher, osteologist of the museum, eight months to restore it. The skeleton is twenty-five feet long and stands fifteen feet high. The tusks are nearly twelve feet long.

The Imperial elephant or mammoth ranged over what is now the United States from the Missouri river to the Pacific and Southern Mexico. It is believed to have been the largest of the mammoths, or elephants, with an estimated height at the shoulder of thirteen feet and six inches, as compared with a shoulder height of nine feet, six inches in the American mastodon, and eleven feet, six inches in the modern African elephant. One pair of tusks unearthed near Los Angeles not from the asphalt are eight inches in diameter and their length is estimated at approximately sixteen feet.

A distinguishing feature of the Imperial elephant is the enormous size of the molar teeth in which the transverse enamel plates are relatively few as compared with other species of mammoths and elephants, widely separated and surrounded by a heavy mass of cement.

STRUCK ON BICYCLE

Owing to the very serious nature of his injuries, recently sustained, combined with the fact that the Southern Pacific corporation has a hospital of its own at San Francisco, Mr. John Paul of 525 South Orange street will be taken from the Crocker hospital this afternoon to the above-named institution. An X-ray examination was taken yesterday, which revealed among other conditions, a very serious injury to the pelvic structure.

Mr. Paul had become so disgusted by many years of strap hanging, or the ungentlemanly alternative of rushing a seat and watching weary work girls and women who had been shopping all day do the strap-hanging act, that some months ago he resorted to a bicycle as a means of conveyance to and from work.

He was on his way home Thursday evening, about 7 o'clock; was passing through Tropic; had passed a large dray pulled by two spirited animals, and hearing an unusual clatter in the rear looked back, only to note that the dray team was on a rampage.

As quickly as possible he attempted to get out of harm's way, but not soon enough, as the team bore down upon him and sent him hurtling into the gutter. He was picked up by many willing hands who had quickly gathered, conveyed to a grocery store; thence to the receiving hospital and later to the Crocker hospital in Los Angeles, where he now lies.

"OUR COLUMN"

Alabama's Law Against Liquor Advertisements

As an important move in the direction of enforcing its prohibition laws, the legislature of the state of Alabama has passed a law which prohibits newspapers and magazines published in the state from carrying liquor advertisements in their columns, and prevents the sale in that state of newspapers and magazines published in other states which carry liquor advertising matter. Naturally, this has resulted in a tremendous howl from the subsidized liquor press of the country on the dangers of censorship, some of them going so far as to suggest that if this state has a right to say that outside newspapers shall not carry any special form of advertisements they may desire to carry, it would also have the right to say what kind of news and other reading matter should be eliminated from their columns; the result would be the suppression of the freedom of the press, one of the fundamental principles of Americanism.

They seem to overlook the fact that the sale of liquors in this state is unlawful; that these advertisements are published, whether in the newspapers of the state or of other states immediately contiguous, and sent into that state for the sole purpose of inducing the readers thereof to buy liquor; in other words, the sole purpose of these advertisements is to induce the citizens of Alabama to do an unlawful thing. This being true, the state would be sacrificing its own sense of self-respect and encouraging its people to become law-breakers if it did not do everything within its power to prevent its citizens from becoming parties to an open conspiracy against its laws. If every state in the Union which has prohibitory statutes would follow suit, it would not be long until such advertisements would be banished from the columns of our newspapers and magazines.—Seattle Sun.

From the Presbyterian Assembly convened at Rochester, N. Y.: The assembly this afternoon adopted a resolution offered supplementary to the report of the temperance committee, condemning Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst of New York for writing a letter to California which was interpreted as supporting an antiprobibition party of that state. All such letters written by any members under the jurisdiction of the general assembly likewise were condemned.

FESTIVAL GRAND SUCCESS

Thompson, Charles Grist and T. W.
Watson.

The Glendale fire department followed in excellent trim. The engine was manned by A. H. Lankford, Geo.
Brewster, Geo. Potter, Walter Eves, Joe Olivas and Tony Collins. All the men were in fine condition and their outfit polished and shining, equipped for effective fire-fighting.

Tropico fire department came next with City Marshal and Fire Chief J.
W. Gould in command, aided by Deputy E. C. Fairfield.

Then came the city municipal band
under Tom Furst, the skilled musician. They played with precision appropriate selections. After the music came McGillis' "wheel of fortune," a Chamber of Commerce design, showing the advantages of Glendale and indicating by means of a moving pointer the probable development of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones came next in a beautifully decorated automobile that won much approbation along the line and incidentally won the first prize in its section.
Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell and party followed in another attractive auto.
Then came Queen Sybil, from Los Angeles, who was elected queen to represent Southern California at San Francisco exposition. The queen was seated in an Overland car and was accompanied by Mrs. Carillo, Mr. R.
J. Kennedy and Mr. Williams.

Then came the Elks' car, decorated with a huge elk's head and otherwise appropriately adorned. This car won the first prize in the fraternal orders section. It was occupied by Miss Barbara Mitchell, the queen of the carnival, accompanied by her maids-of-honor, Miss Alpha Clement and Miss Harriett Baird. In the car were also Exalted Ruler Packer and
C. O. Pulliam.

The Odd Fellows followed driven by Dan Kelly, Jr. The car was finely trimmed and was a center of much favorable comment.

The high school car was universally admired, with its sweet and lovely high school girls. Those young ladies were those who had acted as attendants at the high school festival during the past week. They were not headed by the queen of the high school festival, Mona Butler, who was unfortunately unable to attend through sickness. Those present were Lucille Barnes, Jennette Mc-Clenahan, Margaret Gregg, May Ellen
O'Leary, Marjorie Inler, Evangeline Hunchberger. The car was driven by Mr. Hunchberger.

One of the most attractive outfits
in the parade was that of the Robinette club, which was cleverly dressed in evergreens with a treble clef neatly made in flowers on both sides of the vehicle. A merry party from the club occupied the auto and made the procession gay with song at intervals. Those in the car were Mrs. Snow, Mrs. Robbins, Miss Mattabelle Provolt, Mrs. Gladys Sherman, Miss Zettie Duncan, Miss Clara Pierson, Miss Elmira Cross, Miss
Lillian Mills, Mrs. Ruby Alston, Miss Catherine Lewis, Miss Viola Yorba.
Mr. McFadden drove the car.

The Stoddard & Moore car was driven by S. P. Stoddard. It was tastefully decorated. Beldin's Sheet Metal Works had a cleverly representative metal shop on the auto. The Indian motorcycle was the exhibit of the Hartfield Hardware Store. Two Indian motorcycles that are about to start for New York, across the continent, were on the float and were embowered in roses and evergreens.

C. E. McPeck, the plumber, had a nicely decorated float with two boys
in a bathtub, presumably a "before and after" exhibit, as the one boy was black and the other white.

Roberts & Echols had an immense telephone on a float, with their telephone number in huge letters—195.

Cornwell & Kelly had a float showing a handsome exhibit of hardware, cutlery goods and locks.

The First National bank showed one of the most beautifully decorated autos in the parade, with a show of bamboo umbrellas. In the car were W. W. Lee, Ed. M. Lee, M. P. Harrison, Harry Francey and others of the bank staff.

The Glendale Savings bank was also to the front with a strikingly adorned auto.

The Men's Shop, H. H. Faries, had a nicely and appropriately decorated auto.

S. H. Schilling & Co. Dry Goods
Store had a nice auto occupied by Mrs. M. Ranger, Mrs. Baxter and their clerks.

The Southern California Gas company had a unique gas outfit showing a real live nigger mammy washing clothes over a gas range and a juvenile chef, in the person of Billy Phelon, at a gas stove cooking wee dainties.

The Toledo Gas Floor Furnace
was another clever exhibit. Clem
Moore here showed great originality.
His pointer dog stood on the float
tended by young Master "Barney" Watson, who with a miniature megaphone and his tiny voice, was doing some effective advertising for the firm. Little Miss Pauline Wilson occupied the front seat beside the driver.

Wright's Jewelry Store had an exhibition of clocks neatly arranged on an auto.

The Thornycroft Farm entered one of the most tastefully and beautifully decorated autos in the whole parade.
Roses in profusion on a green and white background against which also the white costumes of the nurses showed in marked contrast, made up a fine sight. Mr. and Mrs. H. L.

Miller occupied the car along with part of their staff.

The Glendale Laundry showed its loyalty to Glendale by sending no fewer than eight cars to take part in the parade. One of these cars gained a prize. The Glendale Dye Works was also represented with a nicely decorated delivery wagon.

Then came a car representing the cafeteria dinner in the Masonic temple. Afterward came a most picturesque section of cowboys and girls preceded by Steelman's famous old stage coach, loaded with charming girls. The whole Steelman outfit of horses, mounted and managed by clever cowboys and horsewomen, was one of the most attractive parts of the parade. Mr. Steelman and Miss C. Connors won first, second and third prizes in this section.

The North Glendale outfit, in the class of horse-drawn vehicles, was a beautifully decorated wagon, covered with California poppies. This vehicle was drawn by a fine team of black horses, driven by Mr. David Black.

The Central Stables outfit, driven by John Stockdale, a six-horse turnout, was much admired.

Other exhibits in the parade were:
The Zerolene auto with its oil tank decorated.

The Glendale Evening News car,
nicely decorated and driven by A. T.
Cowan.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph car—a service wagon with decorations.

Last, but not least, came "The Coffee King," Frank Booth, with a bevy of fine young children on the top of his cleverly decorated wagon. The king himself was in his royal robes and on each side of his horse's head walked an attendant in gorgeous costume.

Glendale has never had so excellent a parade as this and the whole turn-out was highly creditable to all concerned.

Following is the list of prizes
awarded by the judges:

Fraternal Orders—First, the Elks;
second, the Odd Fellows.

ette club.

MISSION OF THE RURAL CHURCH

SHOULD BE UNIVERSITY OF RE-LIGIOUS LEARNING.

Duty of Christianity to Evangelize the World.

By Rev. Jno. A. Rice, D. D.
Pastor St. John M. E. Church, South,
St. Louis, Mo.

Some years ago, the question was asked: What is a college? The attempt to answer it shook the educational world in America from center to circumference. Another question is now beginning to be asked: What is a church? Without undertaking to give a definition of it, let us ask, in this initial paper, what the church is for? The New Testament reveals three distinct tasks to which it is committed.

First, that of evangelization. The church is divinely commissioned to reach for the lowest and the least man in the least land and offer him
sonship to the Eternal God; offer him
a divine power, which lifts him out of the bog and places him upon the highest levels of human life, where God and the soul are in fellowship.
This alone were an immense privilege.

Teaching the Art of Living.

The church is commissioned also to teach and train those who are rich with its evangelistic message.
The term, Religious Education, has come to mean a specific thing in our country, namely, the training of the people in the local church in those deep matters which pertain to the art of living. I am not now speaking of the work of education in schools, colleges and universities, but the work
of education at our doors, in the congregation. Every agency in reach should be employed to the utmost in this important mission. Indeed, the local church could be made a sort of university for all the people, in which the simple, practical arts and virtues of everyday life should be taught and enforced. Only recently has this special phase of the church's work received anything like adequate attention. The New Testament word for it is Edification.

School of Religion Needed.

Of course, the Sunday School is the center for all this work, although the activities of the church should extend through the entire week and the Sunday School should cease to be so named. It should be called the School of Religion or the Church School or something else that indicates it to be an all-the-week activity. During this time various and sundry clubs, classes,
musical organizations, culture courses,
as well as distinctly religious meetings,
should be held. Thickly settled neighborhoods, as we shall see, offer fine opportunities for the development of things spiritual.

The third task to which the church
is committed is that of Christianizing
the social order; that of infusing the spirit of Jesus into every nook and corner of our life. Nothing is foreign to the interest of the church.

Neighborly Love Essential.

If religion pervades and colors the whole life then ours is serious business, for it will let no corner of the world escape its influence. The sooner we learn that Christianity is not a thing to be practiced in a corner the better for the world. The question of the eighteenth century, touching Christianity, was, Can it be made to square with the human reason? Of the nineteenth, Can it be made to square with the results of scientific research? Of the twentieth, What can it do? We must learn to enforce not only love of God, whom we cannot see, but love to our neighbors, with whom we are living in constant contact. Neither without the other is Christianity whatever else
it may be. Everything that interests his neighbors must interest him, if he is a genuine follower of the Christ.

It is the mission of the church—the rural as well as the city—to evangelize
the whole world, to train to the highest degree of efficiency those whom it evangelizes and to seek to make the spirit of Jesus the absolute rule in all human relations.

It is an admitted economic fact that there can be no permanent prosperity
without a permanent agriculture.

THE NATION'S DINNER TABLE

When the dinner bell of this nation rings there have been slaughtered for the past 13,000 beefs, 21,000 hogs, 4,600 sheep, 2,000 hundredweight of poultry and other meats, and there have been 700,000 bushels of cereals and 840,000,000 pounds of vegetables prepared for the feast. Multiply these quantities by one thousand, representing approximately the number of meals per annum, and we have the annual contents of the nation's larder.
But with all our immense quantity,
superb quality and wide range of products the American housewife, like the wife of King Nebuchadnezzar, longs for variety and she goes marketing in foreign lands. She buys abroad $200,000,000 per annum of farm products that can and should be produced in the United States.
